Standing of B.B. League

A League game was played on the Didsbury diamond on Friday night last between the home nine and Crossfield, Didsbury winning by a score of 12-1.

The locals played the tightest game of the season, some of the plays made being of a very high order. Liesemer and Reiber sent the fans wild once or twice with good plays while Stouffer in the box and Tessier behind the bat also played a good game. In fact all the team were on their toes. Unfortunately Crossfield seemed to be a little loost and the game was rather one sided.

The standing of the clubs

	Won	Lost	Tied
Didsbury	9	6	1
Olds	10	4	0
Carstairs	9	5	1
Crossfield	6	9	0
Innisfail	2	12	2

Olds and Carstairs have one more League game to play, while Didsbury, Carstairs and Innisfail have to play off tied games before the championship is settled.

Farmers Should Support Exhibition

Didsbury's 21st Annual Exhibition is now only a week away and while preparations by the officers of both the Exhibition and Sports have finally arranged their programmes for a good day, and the business men of Didsbury have financed the day it remains for the farming community to make the event a success.

Liberal prizes for all exhibits are offered and it is absolutely the duty of everyone who has something to show to do so. We have one of the best districts in Alberta. Our horse, cattle, swine and sheep and poultry breeders have some of the best stock in the province and it is their duty to show some of this stock to the public. It may mean a little hard work but the support which it will give to the Agricultural Society and the publicity to be gained, to say nothing of the opportunity of winning enough money to pay for the trouble, are all good reasons why the stockmen, especially, should take a little effort to make the Exhibition worth while.

It may be a little early for the grains, grasses, roots and vegetables but at that bring in what you have to make a good competition.

The ladies can also have a very large part in making the Fair a success. Their classes are usually pretty well filled but an extra effort should be made this year to fill their department to overflowing. It is one of the most interesting exhibits of the Exhibition usually and it is hoped that it will be as large, and even larger, than other years.

The date of the Exhibition is set early enough this year so that it comes between the busy seasons consequently there is very little excuse for not supporting a local institution that is doing its best to encourage all lines of agriculture as well as the domestic arts.

A splendid line of sports have been provided to amuse the patrons of the Fair during the times when they wish to rest or have seen the exhibits and music is being arranged for the afternoon.

Break away for a day from your home routine and come in to Didsbury on Wednesday next. It will pay you.

Auto Visitors Are Numerous

The new auto camp is surely proving of benefit not only to auto travellers and their comfort but also to the town. Mayor Chambers has donated a book for a register at the camp and while it has only been placed in the "kitchenette" for a very short time a glance through its pages make good reading from the comments entered.

One of the good things that one lady had to say was "May the skin of a gooseberry be large enough to cover all of Didsbury's enemies." The good wishes expressed and appreciation shown in the entries testify to the fact that the camp is worth while.

Visitors from Edmonton, Strathcona, Calgary, Mirror, Alix, Pibroch and Tofield registered in the last few days.

Two or three chairs are needed for the shack, a rocking chair for the ladies and one or two kitchen chairs. It is hoped that some Didsburyites who have an extra chair or two will donate the same for the comfort of these visitors. Anyone who wishes to donate these can call up Mr. Cecil Adshhead, President of the Community Board of Trade, at his garage and arrangements will be made to convey them to the camp.

Special Prizes For Didsbury Exhibition

The attention of intending exhibitors is drawn to the following special prizes for the Didsbury Exhibition, which is to take place next Wednesday, which have been added to the prize list:

Rosebud Flour Mills

The Rosebud Flour Mills are offering a "Rosebud Special" for the best loaf baked from their flour. First, 98 lb. sack flour; Second, 49 lb. sack of flour; Third, 24 lb. sack of flour; Fourth, 10 lb. sack wheatlets.

Contestants get their flour at the Mill between dates July 23rd to July 26th inclusive. Bread to be judged by regular judges at the Fair.

Robin Hood Prizes

Offered by Robin Hood Mills, Ltd., through Mr. J. R. Miller, their Didsbury Distributor, for the best loaf of bread baked by non-professional with Robin Hood Flour: First Prize, 98 lb. Robin Hood Flour; Second Prize, 49 lb. Robin Hood Flour. Dealers sales slip showing purchase of not less than 49 lb. of Robin Hood Flour within three weeks of date of contest, to be attached to Exhibit.

Shorthorn Special

Advice has also been received from the Alberta Shorthorn Breeders' Association that they will again award diplomas for the Champion Male and Female Shorthorns exhibited at the Didsbury Fair.

A dinner will be served on the Fair Grounds on Wednesday, July 30th. Come for a good dinner at a low price. Under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Donations would be appreciated.

Local Crop Prospects

The Didsbury district seems to be specially favored this year according to crop reports coming in from practically all over the west. In large parts of all three of the western provinces crop prospects are exceedingly poor. Lack of moisture and extremely hot weather have changed the outlook completely from that which existed at the commencement of the season.

From Carstairs to a little north of Olds, the grain is in excellent condition, but we believe that this district is just a little the better, the wheat heading out heavier and the stalk showing a much longer growth. All other grains also seem to be doing exceedingly well and with the rains which have visited us during the last few days the prospect for a splendid crop is exceedingly bright.

With the high prices being quoted on the grain exchanges, and the proven successful operation of the wheat pool, this district seems to have little to complain of in regard to the outlook this fall.

Licenses Must be Paid

Police court proceedings were numerous last week in Didsbury. The town took action against several dog owners under the license bylaw with the result that four owners of dogs who had failed to comply with the request of the town to pay up were each fined and also had to pay their licenses. The fines and costs in these cases, outside of the licenses, amounted to about $18. Mr. J. I. Welsh, J. P., of Olds, tried the cases.

Another case of failure to pay a provincial license to carry on hail insurance was tried before Mr. J. E. Bender, J. P., on Friday. The charge was laid by the province and defendants had to pay $20 and costs besides the license.

What Of Canada's Future?

One day recently the writer of this weekly article read two divergent views of Canada's progress during the past few years. One was pessimistic; the other quite optimistic. Yet there was much of truth in both, altogether neither writer appeared to take into consideration the effects of the Great War on the progress and development of the Dominion.

The pessimistic note was sounded by Miss Agnes Laut, well-known writer and lecturer. She is not at all pleased with Canadian progress, believes that sectionalism is rife, and that Canadians are not living up to their possibilities. Declaring that she is frankly very depressed about Canadian conditions, Miss Laut states that what this country needs just now is a ringing message of optimism, founded on fact, and that she cannot give "ill Canada's mental outlook changes toward the world."

"I used to think," continues Miss Laut, "it was economic pressure prevented Canada measuring up to her unequalled inheritance of great natural wealth. Now I know it isn't. It is your lack of dedication to the ideal in which your nation was conceived and born—He shall hold dominion from sea to sea." Instead of that I see Canadian sectionalism growing. And then Miss Laut dwells on the exodus of Canadians to the United States, and the fact of a population of only nine millions whereas, she says, Canada ought to be a nation of 40 to 60 millions, humming with prosperity that could be heard around the world.

The opposing, and more optimistic view is presented in articles appearing in Toronto Saturday Night, which recalls the prediction of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier that the Twentieth Century would be Canada's Century. Sir Wilfrid made this prediction in the days when Canada was emerging from a long period of halting growth into an era of amazing progress—an era, 1898 to 1910, which even Miss Laut says was Canada's one era of "humming prosperity."

Almost one-quarter of that century has passed, and what does the record disclose? Toronto Saturday Night finds in the progress of Canada during the last twenty-five years a conclusive answer that thus far the Dominion has lived up to its title of being "The Country of the Twentieth Century." It notes that Canada has become in fact, as well as in promise, the controlling factor in the world's wheat trade—one of the giants of international commerce; it draws attention to Canada's astonishing advance in the production of pulp and paper; it refers to the extension of Canada's manufacturing activities in countless directions until today the Dominion is ranked high among the industrial nations of the world; it cites the tremendous expansion in trade and commerce to a figure which few business men would have imagined or dared to prophesy twenty or even fifteen years ago.

But what of the future? Unquestionably, and notwithstanding the growth of the past twenty-five years, encouraging in many respects as that growth undoubtedly is, Canada is yet a long way from being the country it ought to be, and Nature, with its bountiful gifts, intended it should be. What is the reason? Is it sectionalism and lack of a great national ideal, as Miss Laut says, or is it the economic pressure of a great and highly organized nation to the south in which Canadians can find a home without the disabilities of an unfamiliar language and customs which most emigrants from one country to another suffer, or is it Canada's somewhat rigorous climate, or is there some lack of initiative and courage on the part of Canadians in applying themselves to the development of the Dominion's great wealth of natural resources?

It would be idle to deny that there is too much sectionalism in Canada. The fact of two races, two official languages, two great opposing religious groups, necessarily tends towards sectionalism. This is further accentuated by the geography of Canada which divides the Dominion into two economic groups, east and west. Time and development alone can fully overcome these obstacles, and they are being overcome. Racial and religious animosities are not nearly so acute as they were a quarter of a century ago.

Notwithstanding the attraction of the United States, Canada's population has increased by nearly four millions since the Twentieth Century dawned, and as the Dominion grows and develops, and opportunities are thereby increased, the attraction of the United States will steadily lessen.

Canadians have displayed courage and initiative, and for a nation of few people scattered over half a continent, have remarkable achievements to their credit. Nevertheless, it must be admitted that our captains of finance and industry have not exerted themselves as they should, nor taken full advantage of the great opportunities which were theirs to develop and bring prosperity to their country. There is room for vast improvement here.

Canadians should develop a national ideal. They should be more optimistic regarding Canada's future, because, without doubt, the Dominion faces a career, as Toronto Saturday Night puts it, in which the period of economic youth and growth has still a long and promising course to run.

Alberta Natural Gas Development

New Well At Foremost Greatly Increases Output

Well No. 4 of the Canadian Natural Gas, Light, Heat and Power Company, in the new Foremost Field, was brought in recently, with a measured output of 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, open flow, according to formal notice given the Alberta Public Utility Board by the company. This makes the well the biggest of the group of four new producers in the field and provides a total supply of gas at Foremost of 49,000,000 feet open flow measurement.

Canada As A Wheat Exporter

Dominion Is Assuming An Extremely Important Position As A Wheat Exporting Country

That Canada is assuming an extremely important position as a wheat exporting country is strikingly illustrated by comparison with the volume of wheat exports from the United States. Last month, Canada shipped more than 41,000,000 bushels, in comparison with exports of 3,431,000 bushels from the United States. It is also interesting to note that four times as much Canadian as American wheat left American ports last month.

British Government Aims to Give Reliable Service With America

The 200-kilowatt transmitting apparatus by which the British Government hopes to inaugurate wireless telephony conversations with America will be installed about the end of August at the Rugby station, according to present plans. It is hoped to begin the experiments during the following month or early in October.

Speaking in the British House of Commons, Postmaster-General Hartsorn stated that experiments were in progress to test the possibility of establishing commercial telephone wireless between England and the United States. "Spasmodic communication," said Mr. Hartsorn, "has been achieved over extremely long distances, but the aim of the experiments which are now being conducted is to give a reliable and continuous service."

Movement of Alberta Wheat

Total of 152,615,776 Bushels Handled in Province By Railways

Railway companies operating in Alberta have shipped a total of 152,615,776 bushels of wheat between September 1 of last year and May 31 of this year. From this must be deducted about 20,000,000 bushels to allow for the quantity received from points in Saskatchewan which are included in Alberta division of the C.P.R., and to allow also for duplication in handling of grain coming off branch lines to main transcontinental lines.

THE SYMPTOMS OF IMPOVERISHED BLOOD

Show in Pale Faces, Tired Feeling and Breathlessness

People who are pale, languid, with palpitation of the heart and shortness of breath at slight exertion are suffering from thin, impure blood. If they have the resolution to take the right remedy and stick to it, they will find new health and strength. The remedy that can always be relied upon is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. With every dose they improve and invigorate the blood, and this new blood means health and strength. Mrs. A. Griffiths, Pierson, Man., is one of the many thousands who have proved the value of these pills. She says: "I was so badly run down in health that I was almost bedfast. The least exertion would leave me breathless. I suffered from headaches and backaches, and had no appetite. I could only drag about the house and found even light housework almost impossible. I tried several remedies but they did not do me a particle of good. Then a friend came for a visit and she urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I had finished the second box I could feel that they were helping me. By the time I had taken four boxes more I was a well woman and every symptom of my trouble had disappeared. It would not be possible for me to say too much in favor of this medicine, and I always recommend it to run-down people, and have seen it prove just as satisfactory in other cases."

If you are weak and run-down you can begin getting new strength today by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by writing to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Logging in B.C.

British Columbia's log scale during the first three months of 1924 has exceeded that of any similar period of any year in the history of the province. According to the Provincial Government reports, timber scaled in the first quarter of the current year totalled 590,737,638 feet, as compared with 367,413,635 in the corresponding period a year ago, and 331,269,693 in the first three months of 1923.

In The Shadows

The Dark Cloud That Looms Over Stricken Europe

Europe, with three times as many languages as before the war, and three times as many nations, with an innumerable increase in the fighting issues, is being gradually moved towards an eventual international decision. The policies of the present day contain all the elements of another destructive war. Europe cannot endure as a purely militarist equation. It cannot succeed economically with its existing barriers of frontier, language, fear, hate and financial instability. The greatest of all the obstacles to unification is language, and it is difficult to see at present how it can be overcome. Fortunately, underneath the surface many noble forces are at work, which, in time, may leaven the whole. But their success will only be assured when the official policies of the nations have undergone a radical change.—Natal Advertiser.

Does Your Baby Cry?

Is it nervous and restless during hot weather? If so—most likely his food is not agreeing with him. If you cannot nurse your baby and it does not gain upon your breast milk give him Borden's Eagle Brand Milk—the food that has successfully reared hundreds of thousands of babies. Easy to prepare—just add boiled water as directed.

In this paper from time to time you will find an advertisement of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk, a food that has raised more healthy babies than all the prepared infant foods combined. Cut out the advertisement and mail it to The Borden Company Limited, Montreal, and they will send you, free of charge, instructions for feeding your baby, and a Baby Welfare Book and Baby Record Book. Or, just wire the Company, mentioning this paper and they will be sent.

The Family Physician.—The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest save many a fee.

Discover Bison Herd

Two Thousand Buffalo Found in Slave Lake District

There were reports from Indians and hunters a little time ago that the bison still existed in certain districts of the Canadian west, but it was supposed that the observers had made a mistake about the kind of animals they had seen, and that these were not the true bison. Finally, the Government sent an expert naturalist to visit the region, and he has returned with the news that a herd of wild bison, the real genuine animal, as big and strong as the bison of the early days, is living in the country between the Peace River, the Slave, and the Caribou Mountains. There are 2,000 of them, and their numbers are growing.

So the Canadian Government has assigned to these four-footed citizens of the Dominion a park of plain and woodland, well watered by rivers and over 10,000 square miles in extent, where protected against all intruders, they may flourish and multiply and range at their own wild will.

Corn cannot exist when Holloway's Corn Remover is applied to them, because it goes to the root and kills the growth.

Canadian Flour Exports

Canadian flour exports during the month of May exceeded those of the United States. During the month 1,057,487 barrels of Canadian flour were exported, while those of the United States totalled 967,504 bbls.

Australians Will Tour Canada

Fifty boys, ranging in age from 14 to 18 years, members of the Young Australia League, will make a tour of Canada in August of this year. The visit is a return of that made by the 101st Canadian Cadet Corps to West Australia in 1912. The boys will arrive at Quebec on August 23.

Not Reducing Armaments

Speaking at a League of Nations Union (Welsh Council) meeting at Llandrindod, Wales, Sir John Simon said it was hoped that the late war would result in a great reduction of armaments, but today there were a million additional bayonets available for service in Europe, above what were available before the late war, whilst submarines had almost developed to the size of cruisers.

THE SENATE HAS FINISHED WITH BRANCH LINES

Ottawa.—The Senate finished with the Canadian National branch lines in passing the remaining bill, providing for a two-mile line in Quebec. The programme passed in the House comprised 26 bills. Of this number, in the Senate, eight have been killed and the remainder passed. Those killed represent twelve million dollars of the cost, and about a third of the projected mileage.

The province that suffers most is Saskatchewan. While some lines there are to be gone ahead with, two which are particularly desired—the Turtleford and Radville branches fell by the wayside. They were two that the C.N.R. had in its most preferred list, and in regard to which the prospects were considered most promising. Scores of protests have come to Ottawa about this action, said to be discouraging in a peculiar degree to the settlers of the affected localities.

As stated before, it does not appear that at this late date any efficient remedy can be applied to overcome the adversity this year. All bills have to go to the Senate, and even if the Government made a special vote for these lines and put them in a separate supply bill, it would in all likelihood encounter the same fate. It is possible that through guarantees some work may be started this year, but of this there is no certainty. The present outlook is that the Senate's action is deadly for 12 months at least, but if nothing can be done meanwhile, the developing wave of indignation should produce such a reaction as to cause some favorable action next session.

Well Known Chief of Squamish Nation Dies at Vancouver

Vancouver.—Chief Jimmy Harry, one of the best known chiefs of the Squamish Nation, is dead, and police are investigating the possibility of foul play. The Indian was picked up in the east end of the city in an unconscious condition from head injuries and sent to the hospital. Recently an award of more than $8,000 was made to the Indians of Chief Harry's reserve by a bridge construction company for use of reserve property and police believe that robbers attacked the Indian hoping to find a sum of money on his person.

British Millers Forced To Advance Price Of Flour

London.—The ninth increase in the price of flour since May first is blamed upon Canada. Gambling in wheat futures is said to be responsible for the rise, together with the expectations for a late and smaller crop this year. English millers declare that they are forced to raise the price to meet the increase in the price of wheat, which is, they say, the direct result of manipulations on the Chicago and Winnipeg grain exchanges. Since the beginning of May the price of flour has advanced more than six shillings a sack.

Alpine Club Will Camp In Rockies

Canadians Expect Members From England and U.S. to Attend

Winnipeg.—The annual meeting of the Canadian Alpine Club will be held at the foot of Mount Robson, monarch of the Rockies, on Thursday, July 31, according to information reaching Winnipeg members of the club. The Alpine Club camp opened this year on July 22, and will close on August 4, and it is expected that of about 150 persons in attendance, a number will be from Winnipeg and other Western Canada points.

Outlying camps are to be placed at the base of the Coleman Glacier and on Calumet Creek, to give access to Moose Pass and the uplands surrounding this region. A camp will also be placed at timber line on Mount Robson, in charge of Conrad Cain, celebrated guide, who led the ascent of Mount Robson in 1913. This high camp will be for the purpose of facilitating attempts to reach the peak of this, the highest mountain in the Canadian Rockies.

It is anticipated that one or more members of the Alpine Club of England will be in attendance, and large parties are expected to be present from various United States points. The climbers will go into camp from Mount Robson station, which is on the main line of the Canadian National Railways.

Postal Employees' Troubles

Toronto.—No change in terms of reinstatement of the postal employees who went out on strike was made as a result of the visit of the Postal Federation officers at Ottawa. It was announced when the officers returned to this city. The executive of the federation will hold a meeting at which the officers' report will be discussed.

Prohibition Is Defeated

Saskatchewan Votes For Government Control Of Liquor

Regina.—Prohibition in Saskatchewan was decisively defeated as a result of the plebiscite, and a substantial majority was registered in favor of Government control of the sale of liquor.

Prohibition was defeated in all the seven cities of the province, the majorities in favor of a change in the liquor system varying from Regina's 4,910 to 56 in North Battleford.

It is anticipated the Provincial Legislature will meet early in the fall—probably some time in October—to pass the necessary implementing legislation changing the liquor law of the province. Until the change has been actually effected the Attorney-General has made it plain there will be no relaxation in the enforcement of the Saskatchewan Temperance Act.

Doukhobors Badly Burned In Fire

Eleven In Nelson Hospital Fought For Lives

Nelson.—No human lives were lost, though 34 horses probably perished, in the Porcupine Creek fire near here. The four missing Doukhobor woodmen have been found. Eleven badly burned Doukhobors are in the Nelson hospital, mostly burned about the head. When the fire overtook the score or more men at Camp Number 2, some took to the creek, immersing themselves, and some to the flume. Then the flume was burned higher up, its flow stopped and the men had to fight for their lives.

London.—Eamonn de Valera and Austin Stack, Irish Republican leaders, were released from prison by the Free State Government, according to a News Agency despatch from Dublin.

Crow's Nest Pass Agreement Is Cause Of Complaints

Ottawa, Ont.—The Railway Commission soon will need to be looking into the general question of discrimination arising out of the coming into effect of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement. At least two forms of discrimination are already claimed. One is from eastern firms complaining of wide disparities between different points in their territory on shipments to the west, while another arises from the position of the Canadian Pacific Railway that on lines in the west, constructed subsequently to the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, complaints are piling up.

Discuss H. B. Road

Ottawa.—Arguments for and against completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway occupied the attention of the House of Commons.

On a Government motion to go into supply, Mr. Knox moved that the failure to complete the railway had resulted in a serious loss to Western Canada. Justification of the building of a railway to Port Nelson and the establishment of marine terminals at that point were urged by Mr. Knox, and endorsed by Rev. T. W. Bird (Progressive, Nelson, Manitoba) who said that the Government ought to define its attitude on the Hudson's Bay route. The element of doubt and suspense which the Government had permitted to creep into the Hudson's Bay controversy he thought more formidable than the biggest iceberg that ever floated in the Hudson's Bay. Canada wanted to know whether, or not, when the Hudson's Bay Railway would be completed.

Sir Henry Drayton (Conservative, West York) spoke at some length on the pros and cons of the question. If he thought the project was feasible, he would be the first to advocate it. But there should be the most searching investigation before any commitment was made.

Egyptian Agitator Held Under Arrest

Was Formerly Professor of Arabic at Oxford University

London.—The arrest of Sheikh Shawish, nationalist agitator at Cairo, in connection with the recent attempt on Premier Zagloul's life has attracted some attention here as Shawish was formerly a professor of Arabic at Oxford University and was known as a brilliant scholar and writer. Notwithstanding his past associations in England, however, he was notorious, according to the Daily Mail, for his rabid hatred of the British people, and his writings in the Egyptian press were marked with such extreme venom and vindictiveness that many of his supporters were alienated.

New Grain Shipping Scheme

Edmonton, Alta.—Full particulars about the new grain shipping scheme that Hon. George Hoadley brought back with him from England were reported by the minister to H. W. Wood, chairman of the Alberta Wheat Pool. Involved in this scheme is a system of grain storage in government elevators in England, and wheat from Alberta, shipped via the Panama Canal, will be especially concerned.

Ontario to Vote on Liquor Issue

Toronto.—Ontario citizens will pass upon the liquor issue on Thursday, October 23 next. Decision to hold a plebiscite upon that date has been reached by the Government, and represents fulfillment of Premier Ferguson's election time pledge of a vote for the people "if and when public opinion demands it."

WILL CONFER WITH PROVINCES ON PENSION PLAN

Ottawa.—A reference to the Supreme Court to secure an opinion as to whether the Dominion or the provinces have jurisdiction in regard to the eight-hour day was recommended to the House of Commons by the select committee on industrial and international relations in its second and final report.

The report was made as the result of an investigation in the committee of the jurisdiction of the Federal and Provincial Parliaments in regard to the draft convention passed at the Washington conference in regard to the eight-hour day on industrial undertakings.

The Dominion Government will communicate with the provinces during the coming recess in regard to the establishment of a system of old age pensions, Premier King stated in the House. He said he understood the old age pensions committee's report contemplated co-operative action between the provinces and the Dominion providing for a pension of $20 a month, of which half is to be contributed by the province in which the pensioner resides.

The Premier again was unable to give a definite reply as to the fate of the alternative vote bill.

Canada has been invited to attend a conference late this year to discuss inter-imperial relations with the British Government and other Dominions, the Premier announced.

Montreal Still Leads

Reported Record of Grain Exports Well Ahead of Vancouver

Montreal.—Vancouver has not yet outdistanced Montreal in the matter of grain exports as was recently stated in a despatch from Ottawa. On the contrary, Montreal retains her position as the premier grain shipping port of this continent. During the ten months ended June 30, 1924, Vancouver shipped out 50,691,096 bushels of wheat, according to the despatch. Montreal, during the same period, shipped out 61,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, or a total of 78,000,000 bushels of all grains, notwithstanding that the period under review embraced five months during which the port of Montreal was closed by ice.

Otto Von Bismarck In Airplane Crash

Machine Was Smashed But Prince Not Seriously Injured

Berlin, Germany.—Prince Otto Von Bismarck, grandson of the former Chancellor, and recently elected to the Reichstag, crashed in an airplane while on his way from Berlin to Nuremberg where he intended to attend an aviators' meeting, according to word received from Bamberg. The Prince, who is an experienced flyer, having served in the aviation corps during the war, was not seriously injured, but abandoned the trip. The machine was smashed.

Factory Inspector Dies

Vancouver.—Mrs. Winnifred Mahon, factory inspector for the minimum wage board and for several years a well known labor leader, died here following a brief illness. For three years she was President of Vancouver Garment Workers' Union.

Trail Riders Hold First Pow-wow

GETTING READY FOR A TRAIL TRIP AT LAKE OJIBWA CAMP

PLENTY OF GUIDES AND PACK HORSES ON HAND AT YOKO VALLEY CAMP

July of this year witnesses the first annual Pow-Wow of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies in Yoho Valley, the wonder valley of Canada's mountain playground where, in addition to the regular accommodation at Yoho Bungalow Camp, a camp of tipis is being put up with capacity for one hundred guests. Last year a group of outdoor lovers made an initial trail ride and found it so fascinating that they decided to form an organization to foster riding in these mountains. Anyone who has established a record for riding in the Canadian Rockies of fifty miles or more, is eligible to membership, irrespective of race, creed, sex, age or color. So far as the Trail Riders' Pow-Wow is concerned, all that is necessary is that intending members should ride in on horseback.

Dr. Charles Walcott, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D.C., is honorary president of the new Order, and John Murray Gibbon, of Montreal, is the honorary secretary. Among the members of the organizing committee are such prominent individuals as H. B. Clow, president of Rand, McNally & Co., Chicago; Reginald Townsend, editor of "Country Life," Garden City, N.Y.; Captain A. H. McCarthy, U.S.N., of New Jersey and Wilmer, B.C., a celebrated mountain climber, and Col. W. W. Foster, of Vancouver, B.C., president of the Alpine Club of Canada. The underlying spirit of the order is a reverence for the majesty and beauty of nature. Its aims are to encourage travel on horseback in the Canadian Rockies; to foster the maintenance and improvement of old trails and the construction of new trails; to advocate and practice consideration for horses and to promote the breeding of saddle horses suitable for high altitudes; to foster good fellowship among those who visit and live in these glorious mountains; to encourage the love of outdoor life, the study and conservation of birds, wild animals and alpine flowers; to protect the forests against fire; to assist in every possible way to ensure complete preservation of the National Parks of Canada for the use and enjoyment of the public; to create an interest in Indian customs, costumes and traditions; to encourage the preservation of historic sites as related to the fur trade and early explorers and to co-operate with other organizations with similar aims.

Last year the Banff-Windermere Motor Road was made available to tourists and eight bungalow camps were built in as many beautiful locations among the Canadian Rockies. Some of them can be reached by automobile, others by trail riding. The new Order will prepare and circulate maps, descriptions and illustrations of existing trails and the country to which they give access, thus putting helpful information within reach of a public that has long been waiting for just such a delightful program as that made possible by the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies.

It had been hoped a year ago. On the other hand, the demand from the United States for western cattle has been recently increasing. In shipping to the south the pool has been able to forward many carloads of feeder cattle direct to farms of purchasers in the corn belt states. This direct shipping is in itself a means of enlarging the market for Canadian cattle, as some of the purchasers had formerly been accustomed to obtain their feeder cattle from the Western United States.

ENQUIRIES

On the subject of co-operation with the Post Office there is still another way in which you can help and that is by avoiding unnecessary enquiries. Just because your friend doesn't receive that letter when you thought he would, or neglects to acknowledge it, is no proof that it is lost. Perhaps it wasn't posted—it may still be in someone's pocket—or tucked away in a corner. First be sure it was actually posted and correctly addressed. Then, be sure that the addressee did not receive the article, if possible get a definite statement covering this.

If you neglect the above points and rush in with your enquiry, in many cases you cause unnecessary work and expense to the Post Office and delay legitimate enquiries or hold up other mail, perhaps your own or a friend's. You do not want to do that, we feel sure, so please co-operate by avoiding hasty enquiries.

"Oh, Sergeant Scarlett, please do keep an eye open for my merry brother along Rideau Street, or whatever you call the thoroughfare which passes your headquarters."

"And I'll have him paged at the Chateau Laurier and ask for him out at Britannia Park," he managed to answer in terms of the city of her schooling. But he had no heart for the jest, mindful of the change that soon must come to her happy mood.

He entered the police shack by the back door and looked in for a moment on Olespe. His prisoner from Lady Franklin oblivious of his fate, seemed to revel in the luxury of the guard room's warmth. The sergeant went through and out the front way.

"Rideau Street indeed," ran his thoughts. "What a name for that streak through the snow in Armistice!"

At that, Moira showed that she knew her Ottawa, for Rideau is the street on which face the red brick headquarters of the Royal Mounted. Would that she had never left the capital! Would that he could wait her home again, sacrifice though that would be in this ice-bound isolation!

Straight to Avic's but he went and broke the seal upon the door, as was his right. Again his eyes were upon all that remained of her "merry brother." He wondered about death and the hereafter and various things that never should enter a Mountie's mind—not when he's stationed, north of Sixty-six.

Then, suddenly, his eyes seemed to open as though a mote had been cast from each. Perhaps this was effected by the magic of Moira's charm and beauty. Certainly he saw details that had not impressed him the previous afternoon.

As might a wolverine in defense of her young, he pounced upon the silver fox pelt that lay on the sleeping bench beside the murdered youth—lay in such a way as to indicate its purchase had already been negotiated. He studied the set of the fur and sniffed at the tanning on the inner side. His eyes widened as he held the beautiful exhibit before him and realized the possibilities that were opened up by this definite clue.

"Magic skin," he murmured half aloud after the fashion of men who find themselves often alone in the wilderness. "You widen the mystery; may you help to close it!"

Gently, without shrinking from the cold touch, he removed the last clutch of O'Malley's fingers from the black fox—probably the pelt of ostensible contention. Close examination of this showed the same conditions to exist.

Neither of the foxes had been trapped in the present winter; both had been cured at least a year.

"Magic skin," he repeated, and breathed a wish too fervent for utterance even in the hut where he stood alone.

In the act of wishing, memory put its finger on him. There came to mind that famous tale of Balzac's, "The Magic Skin." The story dealt with the hide of an ass which, with every wish invoked from it, shrank until the greedy owner was threatened with the disappearance of his magic possession.

Perhaps Seymour had best cease wishing. But he recalled he had a pair of magic skins in hand; grew defiant of the venerable myth, and wished again, more fervently even than before that it would fall to his lot to solve the deepened mystery of the Oliver O'Malley murder.

Opening the pea jacket of his winter uniform, he tucked both furs beneath his tunic. Closing and resealing the hut, he strode back to the police cabin. Had he intended to appropriate the silver and black treasures for his own gain, he scarcely could have hidden them more carefully.

CHAPTER VI. Regard For The Law

Nowhere in the civilized world, perhaps, is there more respect paid to the coroner and his inquests than in the Dominion of Canada. This regard is not confined to the settled provinces, but reaches beyond the Arctic Circle even to the farthestmost post of the Royal Mounted in latitude 76—Eldersmere Island, on the edge of the Polar Sea. This afternoon in Armistice was being devoted to the ancient formality of the law.

As one of the miners, brought in by Constable La Marr from Prospect to serve as jurymen, put it in half-hearted protest to Seymour:

"You red coats would hold an inquest at the North Pole if word came to you that some one was violently dead up there."

In his capacity as coroner, Sergeant Seymour first called the inquest over Mrs. Olespe, whose Eskimo name was too complicated with gutturals for English pronunciation. Upon chairs and one of the bunks in the living room of the post sat the jury—the three gold hunters from Prospect and Factor Karmack. At a table beside his superior was Constable La Marr, acting as clerk of court.

The prisoner, more stolid than sullen, was brought in from the guard room and planted on another of the bunks beside Koplock, the interpreter who regularly served the Arctic Traders.

Seymour's first difficulty was to make certain that Olespe understood the warning that had been given him at the time of his arrest, for he had not entirely trusted the ability of the volunteer translator who had served him up North.

"Ask him if he knows who the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are," was the first address to the interpreter.

There followed verbal explosions back and forth.

"Olespe says they are the rich men of the country," reported the interpreter.

Shrugging his shoulders over the apparent hopelessness of the situation, Seymour tried again: "Ask him what he thinks the police came into the country for."

"To make us unhappy," came the report presently.

"In what way—unhappy?"

Feeling that he was making progress, the sergeant got to the vital point. "Ask him what I said to him when I put him under arrest?"

"He says," translated the interpreter, "you told him he'd get hurt if he talked too much."

Seymour decided to let it go at that and led the way to the outbuilding used as morgue. There Olespe identified the remains of his wife, which had been sledged so many snowy miles because there was no possibility of finding a white jury nearer. The Eskimo added indifferently what was translated into "She no good wife."

Back in the station the sergeant told of his investigations at the scene of the crime, listed possible witnesses and summarized their version of a tragedy all too common among the Eskimo who are prone to the menage a trois. The jury promptly brought in a verdict against Olespe, and Seymour, in his capacity of magistrate, held him to trial.

They were ready then for the second case of the day, the formal inquiry into the death of Oliver O'Malley. As Karmack was to be the most important witness, a change was made in the jury by substituting for him the recently arrived missionary. With these four and his constable clerk, Seymour went down the trail to the hut which Avic had occupied. That Karmack elected to stick by the stove at the post until the jury returned caused the coroner-sergeant secret rejoicing. He saw to it that La Marr did not enter the hut. The jury, seeing the interior for the first time, did not miss the fox-felt clues which he had appropriated that morning.

Karmack and the Eskimo relative who had loaned Avic the hut, gave the only testimony. This the jury held sufficient on which to find a verdict against the fox hunter and when the fact had been duly recorded the coroner's court was declared closed.

The saddest task of the day was at hand—one from which these strong men shrank, but which none was ready to shirk. Presently a strange procession came up the trail from the hut of tragedy. In the lead was the police team of malamutes, with La Marr beside the foremost dog, holding him by leash to a dignified pace. They drew a sled carrying a blanket-burden. This vehicle Seymour steered with the aid of a gee-pole. The prospectors and Harry Karmack brought up in the rear with bowed heads.

The way led eventually, to the newly opened Mission House at the door of which Morrow met them. The dogs were unhitched and taken away by La Marr. The others picked up the sled and carried it into one of the bedrooms. From another room could be heard stifled sobs and words of comfort. Moira O'Malley knew, then, that her sisterly rush into the Frozen North, whatever its real object, had been in vain. The missionary's wife had broken the news of death without the real detail and now was comforting her.

On returning to the post, Seymour was momentarily surprised to see that the police dog team had been hitched to another sled—this one lightly loaded. The native hostler was holding them in waiting. Inside he found La Marr pacing the floor like some animal tenant of a zoo.

"Where away, Charlie?" he asked.

"After Avic. I'm just waiting for you to issue the warrant. You promised me the chance at him, you must remember."

"But why to-night?"

The constable gave him an impatient glance. "I can make that Eskimo camp on Musk-ox to-night; I'll be that far on my way. Haven't we lost time enough through my mistake?"

It took but a moment for Seymour to issue the warrant charging one Avic, Eskimo, with the murder by strangulation of Oliver O'Malley, which was in accord with the verdict. "Remember the motto of the Force, young fellow," he cautioned as he handed over the document.

La Marr stuffed it into a pocket underneath his parkies.

"Aye—get me man!"

"Not that," said the superior with a frown. "It's 'Never fire first!' See that you bring Avic back alive. There's more depends on that than you know."

The constable looked startled. "You don't mean—Why it's an open and shut case. The coroner's jury—" "Bring Avic back alive, that's all. Good Luck."

La Marr squared himself for a formal salute and went out into the gathering dusk. He had his orders.

CHAPTER VII.

Wanted—An Eskimo Fox

After the excitement attending his return from the North patrol, the short winter days and the far longer nights passed slowly for the O. C. of Armistice detachment, now reduced to commanding himself. One week—two weeks—part of a third had been crossed off the calendar without any word coming from his man-hunting constable. Seymour wasn't exactly worrying yet, but he was beginning to wish he had not been so generous about giving young La Marr this chance to redeem himself.

Above all else he desired the custody of Avic, the fox hunter. The body of the accused Eskimo would not satisfy him; no more would a report of his death. Nothing would do but Avic in the quick.

Often in the endless evenings, while intermittent blizzards raged about the shuttered windows, he would take out the black and silver pelts. From various angles he would argue their bearing on the case. More than ever was he assured that they were not of recent trapping. The fur was that of animals which had been through a long, easy winter—one when rabbits had been plentiful. This was not a rabbit winter on the arctic prairies east of the Mackenzie.

These particular foxes had been trapped in the early spring, or he was no judge of fur quality. That this spring had not been the previous one was shown by the seasoned state of the tanning. However, this tanning did not appear to be Eskimo work, but that of Indian squaws further south.

Every Eskimo has a flock of cousins. He had visited several in the immediate vicinity who claimed more or less of that relationship to the missing Avic. He had examined the work of their women on furs. A pronounced difference in process seemed evident to him.

New Cure For Scarlet Fever

Speaking at the closing session of Saskatchewan Medical Association convention in Moose Jaw, Dr. M. M. Seymour, Deputy Minister of Health, announced the discovery of an antitoxin which will cure scarlet fever in 24 hours.

The discovery resulted, he said, from research carried on under the McCormick foundation in Chicago. A limited supply of the antitoxin has been received by Dr. Seymour and later it will come into general use in Saskatchewan.

Triumph Of Young Architect

British Boy, Twenty-Two, Designed Big Liverpool Cathedral

The triumph of a youthful British architect was crowned by the consecration of the Liverpool Cathedral, in the presence of King George and Queen Mary. The cathedral was designed by Gilbert Scott when he was only twenty-two years old. When completed it will rank as one of the largest in the world, being surpassed in size only by St. Peter's in Rome and the Cathedral of Seville in Spain.

It is the third Anglican cathedral to be built in England since the Reformation. Scott's design, which represented his first work as an architect, won the prize in a competition in which more than a hundred architects had entered.

St. George's Hall, in Liverpool, held to be the finest example of Greek architecture in this country, was designed by the late Harvey Lonsdale Elmes when he was twenty-three years old. Ralph Knott represents another example of youthful achievement in architecture. He planned the County Hall, in which the London County Council now meets, when he was twenty-nine.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

This is a Short Letter, But It Proves the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bothwell, Ont.—"I was weak and run down, had no appetite and was nervous. The nurse who took care of me told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I am getting strong. I recommend your medicine to my friends, and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. W. J. Brady, R. R. 2, Bothwell, Ont.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, beneficial influence, and as it contains no narcotics or harmful drugs it is a safe medicine for women.

If you want special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by women only.

New Discovery Routs Chicken Lice

Mineralized Water Gets Rid of Dusting or Greasing—Birds Delouse Themselves. Fine for Baby Chicks and All Poultry

This wonderful product keeps the poultry always lice-free without the poultry raiser doing any work. It is the simplest, easiest, surest and best method ever discovered.

Lice-Go, which is the name of this remarkable lice remedy, is dropped in the chickens drinking water. Taken into the system of the bird, it comes out through the oil glands of the skin and every louse or mite leaves the body. It is guaranteed to help the hatchability of the eggs and cannot injure the flavor of the eggs or meat; it is harmless to chicks and does not affect the plumage. A few days treatment at the start and then a little added to the drinking water each month is all that is necessary.

H. T. Thorne, Fleming, Sask., says: "I have tried Lice-Go and do not want to be without it."

H. N. Olson, Box 28, Edgerton, Alta., says: "The Lice-Go tablets worked wonders on our chickens, my neighbors all want it, too."

Send No Money.—Just your name and address. A card will do. We are so confident that Lice-Go will get rid of every louse or mite, that we will send you one large double strength $1.00 package, enough for 100 gallons of water. When it arrives pay postman only $1.00 and few cents postage; if you are not absolutely satisfied after 30 days' trial, your money will be refunded without question or argument.

(3 $1.00 pkgs., $2.00. Sell two, have your's free). Cash orders postpaid. THE A. B. WARDER CO., Sole Distributors, Box 11-K, WILSON, ONT.

Immigration Increasing

New United States Quota Law Will Prove Benefit to Canada

(By Norman S. Rankin)

Canada stands to benefit materially by the new United States Immigration Quota Law which comes into effect at midnight on June 30th next. It will be of advantage to the Dominion in two ways, first, by the very considerable reduction of all quotas, and, second, by the provision that restricts immigration from Canada by barring out all but Canadian-born or Canadian citizens resident in the Dominion for five years or more, as compared with the present regulation that practically puts a one-year resident in Canada on a par with a bona fide Canadian citizen.

A study of the new Quota Law indicates that while the year just ending permitted an immigration into the United States of 357,803, under the new law the year's total will work out at 161,990, or less than one-half the previous figure. It is further apparent that all countries except France—which never reached its full quota—will have exhausted their quotas for the year, certainly before it is half over, and that the remaining prospective emigrants will require, as an alternative, to consider the prospects and possibilities of Canada, contiguous to the United States, as the country most suited to their requirements.

Under the new law, requiring a five years' residence in Canada, this country will cease to be the stopping-off place for Britishers and Europeans destined to the United States as their permanent place of residence, which will doubtless cause more United States steamship companies to divert their liners to Canadian ports, and already, for instance, the Swedish-American, the Norwegian-American, the Holland-American, the Scandinavian-American, the Royal Mail Steam Packet and the Italian lines have altered their routes.

As soon as the provisions of the new law become effective, July 1st, persons of all nationalities, excepting Canadian-born, will be required to procure an immigration visa at a cost of $10 and will have to pay to the U.S. Immigration Commissioner the $8 head tax. After the visa has been obtained each intending immigrant is subject to the regulations as applied by the U.S. immigration authorities. Such aliens are also subject to the quota of each nationality as laid down by the new act. Regulations pertaining to the quota of each nationality to be admitted from Canada monthly have not yet been completed.

Canadian-born people will not be subject to the quota. Those going to reside permanently in the U.S. will require, however, both immigration visa and head tax receipt, but those going on business or pleasure will continue to be admitted without visa or head tax solely at the discretion of the U.S. immigration authorities in Canada. Little difficulty is anticipated in applying the law so far as Canadian-born are concerned. The main question facing U.S. authorities here is the issuance of visas to persons not Canadian-born waiting in the Dominion for a chance to cross the border.

The following are the estimated immigration quotas from the principal European countries, based on 2 per cent. of the 1890 census with a minimum of 100, as compared with the immigration figures under the present law, the latter figures, in each case, representing admissions under the new law: Austria, 7,310—990; Belgium, 1,563—509; Czechoslovakia, 11,357—1,873; Denmark, 5,619—2,782; Finland, 3,921—145; Germany, 67,607—50,129; Great Britain, 77,342—62,458; Hungary, 5,747—488; Italy, 42,657—3,889; Lithuania, 2,629—302; Netherlands, 3,807—1,637; Norway, 12,202—6,153; Poland, 30,977—8,872; Roumania, 7,419—631; Russia, 24,105—1,792; Sweden, 20,040—9,561; Switzerland, 3,752—2,081; Yugoslavia, 6,126—735; Turkey, 2,651—100.

Canadian immigration for the first four months of the present calendar year is encouraging and represents a total of 43,210, an increase of nearly 100 per cent. over the past year and 157 per cent. over that of 1922. In addition, published Government figures indicate that the return movement of Canadians in the United States is in evidence and that during two of the late spring months over 9,000 have re-crossed the border.

Pact Accepted By U.S.

Agrees to Terms of Tangier Convention Under Certain Conditions

The United States has informed the Governments of Great Britain, France and Spain of its willingness to accede under certain conditions to the Tangier convention signed at Paris on December 18, 1923.

The conditions, in brief, would require a more detailed interpretation of certain provisions of the convention, which are seen as affecting United States rights in the zone, a more definite declaration of the intention of the new administration there to maintain an open door policy and an acceptance by the joint administration of full responsibility for safeguarding American interests.

The Tangier convention, as consummated in Paris, provides for the abrogation of extra territorial rights of foreign nations in the Tangier zone and the substitution of a joint administration authority.

Aid To World Peace

The Unity and Strength Which We Know As the British Commonwealth

But for world peace, for the very salvation, it may be, of a pacific civilization in the world, almost the first condition is the common understanding, the unity and strength which we know as the British Commonwealth. In so far as the British Institute of Foreign Affairs supplies cement for this and helps to fill it with a common purpose, it will render a service which may well prove invaluable. It has been established now for three years and has done excellent work, but fresh fields of activity continue to open before it and it needs additional support. That should not be denied it. —Manchester Guardian.

SUMMER HEAT HARD ON BABY

No season of the year is so dangerous to the life of little ones as the summer. The excessive heat throws the little stomach out of order so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand the baby may be beyond all human help before the mother realizes he is ill. Summer is the season when diarrhoea, cholera, infantum, dysentery and colic are most prevalent. Any one of these troubles may prove deadly if not promptly treated. During the summer the mother's best friend is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and keep baby healthy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The new island which appeared suddenly last November off the Araken coast, in the Bay of Bengal, is now reported to have disappeared as mysteriously as it came.

THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS

Golden Text: In that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted. Hebrews 2:18.

Lesson: Matthew 4:1-11.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 124.

Reference Material: Mark 1:12-13; Luke 4:1-13.

The Text Explained and Illumined

The First Temptation, verses 1-4. The hour of temptation followed closely that of exaltation. Baptism and temptation were parts of one experience. In the one Jesus received His call to consecration; in the other He considered the nature of the call, the way it must be accomplished, and the goal to which it would ultimately lead Him. The same Spirit which had led Him from Nazareth to the Jordan led Him into the wilderness to meditate in solitude upon the responsibility laid upon Him as the Son of God. There were no witnesses to his experience, and the account must have been given by Jesus Himself. We do not think of the devil as appearing to Jesus in bodily form, although he has been so often thus depicted by poets and artists that men's imaginations have been influenced thereby. On the other hand, Dr. George Adam Smith wisely counsels us that we must not allow such needless reminders to weaken our appreciation of the power which Jesus encountered in His loneliness. "To Jesus evil was a force outside of man, though it had its allies within. It was a power which hungered for the souls of men and could finally have them for its own with the same absoluteness as He, the Son of God and Savior of the world, longed to make them His." We may think of Jesus as telling His disciples in order to warn them against similar temptations, or perhaps to justify a course of action which they opposed. Dr. A. E. Garvie makes the interesting suggestion that no fitter time for this disclosure can be thought of than just after his disciples' confession of his Messiahship and Peter's rebuke at his announcement of his coming passion (Mk 8:32). "His rebuke of Peter surely required explanation and justification. Peter must be made to understand that he was playing the part of the tempter. How could Jesus more impressively show that Peter's thoughts and plans, in which the other disciples shared, savored not of God but of men, than by a confession of his own experience? He himself had been tempted to take the course which was being preferred by His disciples to the path of divine appointment, on which he had just expressed his resolve to enter, and had rejected—the course which they proposed as a submission to the solicitation of Satan himself."

B.C. Lumber Mills Are Busy

British Columbia's mills are reaping the first benefits of a revival in Japanese lumber orders. Recently buying was resumed and already some 1,500,000 feet of large squares have been purchased. A peculiar feature of this is that the Japanese buyers are demanding fresh cut, large squares. This suits the British Columbia mills because the lumber stocks are very low in this province.

Miller's Worm Powders are sweet and palatable to children, who show no hesitancy in taking them. They will certainly bring worm troubles to an end. They are a strengthening and stimulating medicine, correcting the disorders of digestion that the worms cause and imparting a healthy tone to the system most beneficial to development.
